Page, AZ –On Veterans Day, Tuesday, November II, 2008, all military veterans and current members of the U.S. Armed Forces and their families will be admitted to Glen Canyon National Recreation Area (NRA) free of charge.

Veterans Day is dedicated to those who've protected this nation and its people, both in years past and today. In appreciation of their service and sacrifice, military personnel, both active and retired, and their families who visit Glen Canyon NRA on Veterans Day will have their entrance fee waived for the day. Free entry for active and retired military personnel will be available at all entrance stations to the park. Other use fees such as those for camping, boating, and concessioner provided tours will still apply.

In 2006, the National Park Service began commemorating Veterans Day with a fee- free day for the brave members of the United States Armed Forces who have answered the call to serve our Nation.
